

Mayor Josh Levy

Dear Society of Breast Imaging Symposium Guests:

WELCOME TO HOLLYWOOD, FLORIDA!

As Mayor of the City of Hollywood, I am pleased to extend a warm welcome to each of you attending The Society of Breast Imaging 2019 Symposium. While you'll be busy making connections with new colleagues and maximizing member engagement and operations, as well as identifying new ideas and best practices in breast imaging, I hope you will also have some time to enjoy all that Hollywood has to offer.

From our award-winning beaches and historic oceanfront boardwalk, lined with shops and restaurants, to our inviting downtown district, there's so much to see and do during your stay. Check out the more than 25 vibrant, larger-than-life wall murals that make up the Downtown Hollywood Mural Project or stop in and see the works of more than 30 Florida artists who competed to be part of the 2018 Florida Biennial at the Art and Culture Center/Hollywood. Enjoy oceanfront music with nightly concerts at our Hollywood Beach Theater or paddle a kayak through one of Florida's largest mangrove preserves at West Lake Park.

Hollywood is the perfect backdrop for this annual gathering, an ideal place to "recharge your batteries" while gaining new ideas and forming new collaborations "To save lives and minimize the impact of breast cancer." We are a city that celebrates diversity and enjoys hosting visitors from all across the United States and abroad. We welcome your organization with its nearly 1,200 person scientific meeting from across the country and the globe.

As you forge new relationships over the next few days and gain additional tools and management insights, we hope you'll also make wonderful memories of your stay in Hollywood!

Sincerely,

Josh Levy
Mayor