The first ever 2015 SBI/ACR Breast Imaging Symposium will be held on April 25-28, 2015 in Orlando, FL.

The Breast Imaging Symposium is a merger of the Society of Breast Imaging’s Postgraduate Course and the American College of Radiology’s National Conference on Breast Cancer. The meeting, which is the largest breast imaging conference in the world, consists of a plenary session, panel discussions and focused single topic refresher courses that cover a wide variety of topics. The course is designed for radiologists, technologists and medical physicists involved in breast imaging, and hosts an exhibit hall with the latest technology. And for the first time, attendees will have the opportunity to hear new and original research being presented at one of several scientific sessions offered throughout the meeting.

Objectives 2015

1. Recognize the importance of mammographic screening, the potential harms of screening, and the assessment of breast cancer risk; particularly as relating to breast density.

2. Identify the appropriate use of breast MRI and MRI-guided biopsy in cancer/disease assessment and management.

3. Describe the current information on the biology of breast cancer from the pathologist and medical oncologist perspectives.

4. Translate research about DBT/Tomosynthesis and contrast enhanced digital mammography and apply those findings to clinical practice.

5. Demonstrate proficiency in a wide variety of breast imaging topics, including biopsy tips and tricks, managing the difficult patient, working in a multidisciplinary environment, challenging cases using ultrasound, MRI and multi-modalities, accreditation, and medical legal issues.

Overview……
An opportunity to experience the UK national PERFORMS self-assessment scheme. Participants will read sets of recent challenging screening cases on clinical workstations and report their decisions about each case into the PERFORMS reporting application (app). Participants can start, stop and restart as often as they wish. Initial mammographic practice cases will help the individual become accustomed to how the PERFORMS reporting application functions and what the task entails. Participants can practice with these cases for as long as they feel it is necessary. Participants will then read a set of recent screening mammographic cases comprising images of two views of each breast. When the participants have taken part they will immediately receive information from the PERFORMS app on how they performed which will be confidential. Participants can then review their various decisions about all cases or as many cases as they like. Practice cases are not included in the calculations of the results.

Participants should be aware that the case sets are weighted with abnormal mammograms and are selected to stretch their skills so they may find them both difficult and challenging. Subsequently, when all participants have completed the case set, then anonymous group data will also be made available to them which will also illustrate how they performed compared to over 700 screeners in the UK on these cases. Such information will be made available to participants via secure pages on the PERFORMS website.

Learning Objectives
- To stretch radiological abilities to locate and identify potentially suspicious features.
- To develop/improve confidence levels in decision making.
- To experience difficult, rare or unusual cancers.
- For an individual to compare their decisions to those of expert radiologists as well as to the known pathology and outcomes on cases.
- To improve perceptual skills whilst interpreting mammograms in normal screening.
- To experience interpreting images captured from a variety of manufacturers.
- Where appropriate, to act as Continual Professional Development activity towards Reaccreditation.

What is PERFORMS?
In breast screening the low presentation rate of abnormalities makes it difficult for individuals to know how well they are detecting early signs of cancer and whether they are performing as well as their peers. The PERFORMS scheme was specifically developed to aid with this.

PERFORMS is a cloud-based educational self-assessment and training scheme for breast screening professionals. In the UK all screening professionals who report screening cases undertake the scheme twice a year where they examine collections of difficult and challenging anonymised recent screening FFDM cases captured on several vendors’ systems. Their various decisions about each case are immediately analysed and compared to the known case pathology as well as the recall judgments of an expert panel of radiologists. Detailed case by case feedback is immediately provided where participants can compare their judgments both to the known case pathology (i.e. did the case have cancer truly present) as well as to the decision of the expert panel of radiologists (i.e. would another reader have identified the features and classified the case as you did). Thus the scheme provides both a self-assessment and a training function. Subsequently in the UK each participant receives detailed reports anonymously comparing their performances to all UK screening personnel.

PERFORMS sessions will run concurrently with the plenary and breakout sessions throughout the first three days of the course. Class size is very limited and on a first-come basis. Pre-registration is required in order to attend this session.
